Definition of an Incapacitating Injury

The Workers' Compensation Act sets forth a strict time frame for filing accident reports with the division. The controlling statute is K.S.A. 44-557(a), which reads as follows:

(a) it is hereby made the duty of every employer to make or cause to be made a report to the director of any accident, or claimed or alleged accident, to any employee which occurs in the course of the employee's employment and of which the employer or the employer's supervisor has knowledge, which report shall be made upon a form to be prepared by the director, within 28 days, after the receipt of such knowledge, if the personal injuries which are sustained by such accidents are sufficient wholly or partially to incapacitate the person injured from labor or service for more than the remainder of the day, shift or turn on which such injuries were sustained.

Accident reports are not required for every work-related injury. The statute requires a report to be filed when the worker's whole or partial incapacity continues beyond the "day, turn, or shift which such injuries are sustained" as the result of accident. "Incapacity" is not specifically defined within the law, but the division believes that the Legislature's intent was to reference a worker's whole or partial loss of the ability to perform his or her ordinary job tasks. When in doubt, keep in mind the law contains no penalty for filing a report that ultimately proves to be unnecessary. There are penalties, however, for failing to file a report when one was required. The penalties include fines and limitations on the defenses the employer may assert if a claim is filed.

OSHA Recordkeeping

The employer must complete an Injury and Illness Incident Report, OSHA Form 301, within seven (7) days of learning that a work-related injury or illness has occurred. According to OSHA's recordkeeping rule, you must keep Form 301, or an equivalent substitute on file for five (5) years.
